On 17 March 2026 in Zagreb, CEPOR organised a NEXT-GEN Workshop for representatives of the second generation of family businesses who want to actively shape their companies' future, enhance their skills, and make informed decisions about growth and development. Participants, including family business representatives and experts, discussed two panels on sources of finance and acquisitions as opportunities for growth, as well as on intergenerational transition, reflecting on the perspectives and experiences of successors who have successfully taken over the business, along with an overview of challenges related to responsibility, management, and intergenerational cooperation.

Special attention was given to the legal framework of inheritance at the NEXT-GEN Workshop, where attorney Štefan Štefanek delivered a lecture titled The Legal Framework of Business Inheritance in Croatia.

Workshop participants gained knowledge on these topics and can use it to prepare for taking over the family business, as well as to gain insights into each other's experiences and business situations.
